Heart to Heart Hospice Expands Service in Southern Indiana

Addition of new Corydon site makes Heart to Heart the largest hospice provider in the state

Plano, Texas – Heart to Heart Hospice, one of the country’s largest private providers of hospice care, has expanded its service area in southern Indiana with the recent opening of a new location in Corydon to meet needs in six additional counties.

The new site is now serving patients and families residing in the counties of Clark, Floyd, Harrison, Jefferson, Scott, and Washington.

“This expansion reflects our response to the growing need we continue to see for quality, comprehensive hospice service,” said Kelly Mitchell, Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Heart to Heart Hospice, which also operates 15 other service areas across Indiana. “We are excited to provide more patients and their loved ones with the compassionate care and consistent support they deserve.”

Indiana’s Executive Vice President Lara Beck noted that the vast majority of the state – nearly 90% – is covered by Heart to Heart Hospice. “With the addition of the Corydon branch, our services are now being offered in 82 of Indiana’s 92 counties, more than any other hospice provider in the state,” she said. “We are honored to make the amazing benefit of hospice care available to so many facing their end-of-life journeys, as well as to their family members, and to provide it in the place they call home.”

The new site, headed by Executive Director Holly Bredemeier, is located at: 113 N. Oak St., Corydon, IN 47112. Phone: 812.773.5150.
